Elihu D Richter and Alex Barnea

GPN ORIGINAL

Iranian hate language and incitement against Israel has varied in frequency and intensity over time, but at its base includes brazen threats to wipe Israel off the map

Genocide in Our Time: The Year and a Half in Review

Alex Alvarez

GPN ORIGINAL

Special Folio: GPN Genocide 2010 Year in Review

For anyone concerned about the issue of genocide, a look back at the first half of 2009 and all of 2008 is bound to produce as much frustration as it does hope. The year and a half 2008-2009 saw a number of both positive and negative developments in regards to the prevention and intervention of genocide, some of which may well have a lasting impact

State-Sanctioned Incitement to Genocide in Ahmadinejad's Iran:

The Responsibility to Prevent

Irwin Cotler

GPN ORIGINAL

The threat [to Israel's existence] is dramatized by parading in the streets of Teheran a Shihab-3 missile draped in the words, "Wipe Israel off the map," while assembled thousands are exhorted to chants of "Death to Israel"

Never Say Never Again?

Gregory S. Gordon

GPN ORIGINAL

Special Folio: GPN Genocide 2010 Year in Review

Not all hope is lost. The apprehension and punishment of certain génocidaires and resolutions, reports and scholarly reminders of the world's revulsion, weariness and resolve to eradicate genocide suggest we may be headed in the right direction

Historic and Controversial Armenia-Turkey Protocols Signed

GPN STORY

What will history say? The government of Armenia has proposed entering into an agreement with Ankara, but a large number of Armenians, especially in the U.S., are adamantly opposed. Harut Sassounian is a stalwart leader of the Armenian people who is strongly opposed. The U.S. State Department, with the historical background of repeated refusals by American governments to recognize the Armenian Genocide, is in favor.
